

Latin American Studies Graduate Fellowship Award, 2021-22

Description

University of Toronto doctoral students who are in the writing stage of their dissertation are encouraged to apply for a Graduate Fellowship Award supported by the Latin American Studies program in the Department of Spanish & Portuguese.

The LAS Graduate Fellowship Award is valued at $1,000 CAD and is for one full academic year (September 1 – May 30). LAS Graduate Fellows will be expected to engage with students and the larger intellectual community at Latin American Studies. They will give a lecture related to their research and will also contribute a workshop for undergraduates on a topic of interest, mutually agreed with the Associate Chair of Latin American Studies.

Applications must include:

- a one-page cover letter outlining their qualifications for the Latin American Studies Graduate Fellowship;
- a curriculum vitae;
- a one-page summary of their doctoral thesis and progress to date;
- a letter of recommendation from their dissertation supervisor.

LAS Graduate Fellows must be currently registered University of Toronto graduate students in the year the fellowship is held and available to participate in the Latin American Studies programming during the tenure of the award.

Deadline for application is May 14, 2021. Award will be announced by June 18, 2021. To apply, compile all documentation requested in one single pdf and send by email to las.program@utoronto.ca, to the attention of the LAS Advisory Board.

Payment of the award will be done in three equal instalments in September, January and April.

Commented [SA1]: I would remove this, as there is no guarantee, and it may create false expectations.